Membership & Donations

Join us and become a member of the fotobus society! Membership is free of charge for students of photography. For all non-students there is a sponsoring membership that costs either 8 Euros per month for individuals or 80 Euros per month for companies. Donate to the fotobus! Any amount helps to keep our bus on the road. We are a registered non-profit, charitable organization that can issue receipts to make your donation tax deductible.

Christoph Bangert

The fotobus project was initiated by Christoph Bangert, a German photojournalist, author, educator and certified bus driver. Bangert has extensively covered the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan for The New York Times and other publications. He is the author of several books including, War Porn (Kehrer 2014) and hello camel (Kehrer 2016). He teaches photojournalism and documentary photography at universities and photo schools and lives in Cologne together with his wife and their two daughters.

The fotobus society is supported by:

Nikon GmbH, laif Agentur für Photos & Reportagen, Photonews, Epson, fotoversicherung.com, Bandstahl Hildebrand GmbH, Hensel-Visit GmbH & Co. KG, Art Book Cologne, ERNST² Architekten

The fotobus is a cultural, social and academic project serving all students of photography. It is owned and operated by the fotobus society, an independent non-profit foundation that is run by a group of German photography students.

The fotobus society offers free excursions, road trips and research expeditions to national and international destinations. All expenses such as fuel, road toll, repairs, maintenance, insurance, vehicle taxes, food, accommodation etc. are covered by donations, memberships, grants and sponsorships.

The fotobus project aims to contribute to humanistic efforts concerned with international peacebuilding, human rights, education and cultural participation. Activities include photographic group projects and exhibitions, visits to photo festivals, workshops and conferences as well as international exchange programs with partner universities and institutions.
